Example of type-size equivalent to N12

Each Talking Newspaper group must register with the Postal Headquarters and use the approved type wallets and labels bearing the words ‘Articles for the Blind’. The service is available to registered blind persons and to other visually handicapped people who are able to produce a certificate signed by an ophthalmologist, doctor or ophthalmic optician, stating that their close-up vision with spectacles is N12 or less. This text has been produced in a type size equivalent to N12.

Contents of the cassettes may be readings from printed newspapers, books, periodicals and similar publications, and material which is of the nature of a newspaper or journal, including ‘live’ interviews and reports, information and advice and ‘Letters to the Editor’. Personal messages are not permitted, and neither is music, except short interludes and jingles, and pieces to illustrate reports (say, of concerts).

This concession is very valuable and should not be abused.
